Hindus To Discuss Czechoslovakian Politics

Maurice Hindus, noted foreign correspondent and author, will discuss one of the "hottest spots in Europe," Czechoslovakia.

He will speak at a convocation next Tuesday evening at 8:15 in the Student Union auditorium, according to Dr. Edmund Freeman, chairman of the convocations committee.

His first study of Czechoslovakia in 1938 resulted in the book, "We Shall Live Again." His next book,

MAURICE HINDUS

To Sing With the Angels," is a story of the Munich agreement and the collapse of the republic.

Hindus was born in Russia and came to America at the age of thirteen. He attended Colgate University, graduated with honors, and later received an honorary degree of Doctor of Literature.

Hindus has made many accurate predictions. In 1939 he said that the Russo-German pact was not a pact of peace but of war. When the Russo-Finnish war broke out, he predicted that Russia was fighting Finland so that she could fortify herself for the war with Germany.

After Hitler attacked Russia, and diplomats and military men prophesied an early collapse of the Russian armies, Hindus wrote a refutation of this theory in his book "Hitler Cannot Conquer Russia."

Recognized as an unquestioned authority on the Soviet Union, Maurice Hindus' latest book, "The Cossacks," is a colorful account of the "fightingest" people in Russia.

Frost, Musicians Entertain Hamilton C.C.

Five music school students put on a vocal and instrumental show Wednesday night for the annual banquet of the Hamilton Chamber of Commerce. Prof. Benjamin Frost, head of the education department, was the guest speaker. The program included numbers by Carol Chaffin, Corvallis, contralto; Marian Lenn, Heron, saxophonist; Xenia Anton, Billings, pianist; Floyd Chapman, Great Falls, baritone; and Joe Merritt, Charleston, N. C., harmonica player.

Program chairman A. L. Kleve arranged for the show through A. C. Cogswell, public service director, and Dean John Crowder of the music school.

Spanish Dancer Off to Madrid

Miss Myrl Elliot, a state department worker who has been entertaining on the campus with her Spanish dancing, will leave Monday for Washington, D. C., she said yesterday.

"I will stop in Washington for consultation and then leave for the U. S. embassy in Madrid," Miss Elliot stated.

She has worked three years for the State department in Santiago, Chile, and has been vacationing with her parents here for the past three months.

While in Chile, Miss Elliot studied Spanish dancing, French and Spanish. In order to practice her Spanish she has been attending Dr. Thompson's advanced conversation class.

She entertained the Los Gringos Spanish club with two Spanish peasant dances, jotás, a Spanish country dance, three Gypsy numbers, and a classical number entitled the Granada. She also gave a talk in Spanish on Chile.

Puddle-Jumper Puzzle: Where to Park The Old Wreck

By VINCENT KELLER

The parking problem on the campus is getting to a point where students will either have to walk to school or park along Higgins avenue.

The parking lot west of the journalism school grows smaller day by day. Yesterday, a count at 10 a. m., found 127 cars parked bumper to bumper. The situation around the oval was similar, with 52 cars fighting for space.

The smallest parking lot, between the law school and library, was crowded with 36 fender-benders at 10:30 yesterday.

A "No Parking" sign is nearly as tempting to violators as a Betty Grable smile, it brings on all comers.

Perhaps a good way to finance the new buildings needed on the campus would be to install parking meters or hire a full-time cop to pass out four-bit tickets.

Miss Montana Crowning Set For April 3

"Miss Montana for 1948" will be crowned at the formal dance Saturday night, April 3, which will climax Montana's own miniature "Miss America" pageant scheduled to begin Thursday, April 1, according to Elaine Palagi, Great Falls, chairman of the pageant committee.

In an attempt to produce their own version of the real thing, the planning committee figures on running three days of judging, beginning Thursday. Business men from all over the state have been chosen as judges and are expected to arrive here sometime Thursday.

A convocation, where candidates still in the contest will present their talents before members of the student body, will be Friday night.

Saturday afternoon, judges will get a better chance to become acquainted with the surviving contestants when all will be guests at a luncheon.

Townpeople and members of civic organizations in Missoula will get an opportunity to check on contestants' talents as they will perform before several groups.

The Associated Women Students are sponsors of the affair. Their steering committee is headed by Lee Ann Turcott, Mujave, Calif. Miss Turcott also heads the finance committee.

Other members of the steering committee, in addition to Miss Turcott and Miss Palagi, are Jean Griffith, Williston, N. D., selection and judges; Lola Falkenhain, Sidney, culture; Joyce Danielson, Hardin, convocation; and Helen Hales, Conrad, publicity.

The deadline for the Mortar board photography contest is March 8, and all pictures should be turned in at Cyrile Van Duser's office.

'Desert Song' Is Chosen For Spring Operetta

Sunday Concert Will Spotlight Hasmig Gedickian

Hasmig Gedickian, instructor in voice, will sing two Puccini arias during the University Symphony orchestra concert Sunday night at 8:15 in the Student Union auditorium.

The orchestra, under the leadership of Eugene Andrie, will present a varied program including Beethoven's "Symphony in F

HASMIG GEDICKIAN

Major," "Malaguena" by Lecuona Grafe, Josef Strauss' "Village Swallows," and Carl Friedemann's "Slavonic Rhapsody No. 2."

Miss Gedickian received a bachelor of music degree from the Shenandoah Conservatory, Virginia, and her master of music degree from Northwestern university. She did extensive work in voice musicology at Columbia university. At the present time she is soloist at the First Church of Christ in Missoula.

Principals in charge are Arthur Meyer, music instructor; Roland Troyer, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Mildred Roy, Anaconda; George Beagle and Kenyon Kaiser, both of Missoula.

Concert arrangements were handled by Madison Vick, orchestra manager; Guy Price, president; Harold Herbig, secretary-treasurer; and Vivian Vick, social chairman, all of Missoula. JoAnn Tripp, Winnett, was in charge of publicity.

A musical play, "The Desert Song," from the book and lyrics of Otto Harbach, Oscar Hammerstein II, and Frank Mandel, will be produced jointly by the School of Music and the drama department, on May 11, 12, and 13.

The operetta will be directed by LeRoy W. Hinze, instructor of drama. The music, arranged by Sigmund Romberg, will be directed by John Lester with Norman Gulbrandsen directing the choral groups and Eugene Andrie conducting. Lewis Stoerker will be technical director.

Familiar selections from "The Desert Song" to be included in the play are "The Riff Song," "Margot," "Romance," "The Desert Song," and "One Alone."

Tryouts for both actors and singers will begin on Wednesday, March 10, at 4 and 8:30 p.m. in the Student Union theater. Solo and choral voices in all ranges, a number of non-singing actors, and solo dancers will also be needed.

Hinze has requested all singers to bring prepared songs with them for their audition. It is not necessary to do a selection from "The Desert Song" for tryouts, he said.

A large production staff is needed for handling business, publicity, public relations, house management, and technical theater work, which includes settings, scene painting, costumes, makeup and lighting. Persons interested in working on the production should contact Mr. Stoerker.

Traveling dates for the show have been tentatively set for May 5, 6, 7, and 8.

4 Debaters Win At Oregon Meet

Four of MSU's debaters won places in the northwest Pi Kappa Delta speech tournament at Linfield college, McMinnville, Ore., recently, according to Ralph Y. McGinnis, debate coach. Two hundred contestants from 33 colleges in the United States entered.

The debaters are Frank Gonzales, Helena; Jerry Baldwin, Kalispell; and Floyd Chapman and Reid Collins, both Great Falls.

Gonzales and Baldwin won four and lost two in debate, and Gonzales won second place in oratory with his speech, "Those Who Cannot Remember the Past." Chapman and Collins reached the semi-finals in oral interpretation.

Scout Director To Give Info

Girls looking for jobs with the Girl Scouts can get first-hand information Saturday and Sunday when a scout executive from Seattle will be in Missoula.

Mary Lou Berry, a director of the northwest district, will discuss job opportunities in professional scouting at the Tri-Delt house Sunday at 2 o'clock. Girls interested in summer jobs at scout camps may contact Miss Berry on Saturday at the Florence hotel.

Jean Trczinski, Miles City, is in charge of arrangements for Miss Berry's trip to Missoula.

The university print shop received a new folder for the Little Giant job press Tuesday, according to Claude Lord, foreman of the university press.

"The new folder has an automatic suction feed and will fold up to 10,000 sheets an hour. It will be used for booklets, and miscellaneous small jobs," said Mr. Lord.

The folder is being set up this week and should be in working order by the beginning of next week, he said.

Red Cross Turns To The People

"Many times a year the people turn to the Red Cross—once a year the Red Cross turns to the people."

Apparently the members of Montana State University, from the youngest to the oldest, believe in this statement, and plan to do something about it.

Probably the youngest member to join the crowd in buying a dollar membership card is little Peter Koch, 4, son of Mrs. Stanley H. Koch. Peter is now attending the university nursing school.

His father, a graduate of the journalism school in 1939, was killed during the Normandy invasion. Mrs. Koch is the chairman of the college unit of the Red Cross.

The work of the Red Cross includes many fields. For example, last month alone more than $900 was extended for veteran's aid on the campus. Much of this was in the form of loans which will be repaid, but there were also some outright grants.

A class for handicapped children is held in the kindergarten quarters every Saturday morning. The children enjoy two hours of play and group work. In May, a class will be started that should interest the wives of students—instruction on home nursery.

Sarsfield, Bahar Top Donors

Hats off to Mayor Sarsfield of the strip housing unit and to Hushang Bahar, Jumbo, for their individual contributions to the Red Cross drive!

Mayor Sarsfield was the backbone for the dance Saturday night at the Community Center with Red Cross membership cards as tickets for the married students and their wives.

Hushang Bahar, native of Tehran, Persia, collected ten dollars in ten minutes at Jumbo!

Early Birds Fill Sections

The early-birds are getting in the sections during advanced registration for spring quarter. By Tuesday 24 sections of various classes were brim full, Registrar Leo Smith reported yesterday.

His office advised barriers to follow the lead of the 716 students who completed registration Monday and Tuesday. Registrants on Monday numbered 251 and on Tuesday 465.

Of those who have already signed up, 541 are men and 175 are women, which makes a ratio of three to one.

Campaign For No 8 o'Clocks

"We believe it is our duty to expose the infamous deeds directed daily against the lowly serfs in the journalism school."

"Therefore, barring any change in censorship laws and risking the possibilities of libel suits, we have dedicated our efforts to a crusade against 8 a.m. classes and press-room coffee," said the head of the Press club Incinerator committee.

This chairman, for purposes of safety, desires to remain unknown until after the scandal sheet comes out. However, he (or she) has reported that the Incinerator committee is doing its annual spring housecleaning and the dirt it has already uncovered about the members of the journalism school and faculty is amazing.

"The dirt continues to pour in each day. The dirt will be hauled away by the highway department following the Press club banquet," he (or she) said.

Special dinner music for the dinner will be provided by the journalism school's own band. The band was unearthed by Ron Rice, who will act as master of ceremonies for the banquet.

Struckman Pinches Pennies; Sitter Probably Pauper

Students, through the years have been notorious for their thrift. Many of them go to school on a shoe string, consequently creditors and collectors of money in the city and on the campus are seldom surprised when a university student pays his bills, reaching deep for pennies.

Our guess is that the disease is catching. Robert P. Struckman, instructor in journalism, paid for his Press club banquet tickets, with pennies, almost four hundred of them. Now with all the money gone from the kid's piggy bank who is going to pay the sitter or the night of the banquet?

gram. This will insure the banquet a big turnout because Saturday night pay is worth time and a half. Theta Sigma Phi is working up a skit—and they would give us no more information than that.

Ralph Evans is rumored to be drawing a special portrait to adorn the Governor and Mayfair room of the Florence hotel.

Not much information was available about the banquet. This means all journalism majors will have to come find out for themselves. Tickets are on sale in the journalism school today and all next week.

Reflecting Fashion Trends

Swinging into springtime the up-and-coming college gal will find full skirts highlighted with ruffles and lingerie touches combined with frilly blouses a pleasing combination.

We have it from a leading local fashion expert that these cotton costumes will be worn 13 inches from the floor and are nicely set off with colorful scarfs and belts.

Cotton is the leading fabric choice in these skirts and blouses, with checks and stripes favored over floral prints this season.

"Little evenings, big afternoons" bring forth a variety of black dresses in rayon sheers or faille crepes for summer. These are gracefully styled, with much flare in silhouette whether in skirtline, capelet, a flounce or tiers. Necklines are low and open, and frequently lace trimming raises the feminine pitch.

"Second to black this summer is navy in similar styling. Gray, toast shades and the pastels follow." This is the forecast of a famous fashion trade publication.

Two-piece suits of seersucker and faille will form a large part of the coed's summer wardrobe. These suits come in many styles, with low cut necklines, three-quarter length sleeves, full skirts and either fitted jackets or long boxy jackets with the straight skirts.

Sun back dresses with the fitted jackets giving a suit dress as well as a sun dress for the summer sun is a talkable trend.

Petticoats and half slips in a variety of plaids and striped taffetas are the choice of campus smoothies.

"Dust ruffles and petticoat flounces widen the hems and make for cool comfort in the era of petticoat fashions." Remember girls, to be really in the vogue, your petticoat must show . . . so let 'em hang.

How 'bout your spring coats and capes? The high style expert says coats are fitted to the waist with flared skirts, full-backed models, usually three-quarter length for the campus. You'll be seeing a lot of capes this season, too, says the expert.

The bare-legged, bottled stocking trend is a thing of the past, for everyone is donning hose this year. You'll match your stocking with your outfit, navy suits mean navy blue hose. Pastel stockings in pink, blue, maise and light green will match the Eastern bonnet.

Short, cropped curls—two, three or four inches from the head will replace the long tresses. See Benny and be in style.

A suggestion for the thrifty coed frocks is that of buying white eyelet embroidery edging for the hems of full skirts, or white waffle pique to be added to the hemline of straighter skirts for a cuff-like effect.

Many of you have one or two perfectly good suits hanging in your closets, unused since the current fashions outmoded the shorter length.

Take them out, and if you have a long jacket, cut it off to make a bolero style, using the remaining material to lengthen the skirt. Fashion experts also suggest piecing the waistline with contrasting colors. For a bit of continuity, add pieces of the same material to the sleeves for a cuff-like effect.

It Happened in Vets' Village

BY JOY McELROY

Be it ever so humble, there's no place like it—the University's strip housing project for veteran married students, that is.

Slogging home through ankle deep mud which consequently results in a nightly ritual of shoe polishing (if you're the fastidious type) is no laughing matter. The muddy grounds have been called just about everything in the book, from "Mud Flats" and "Swamp Hollow" to "Lake street's Lake."

Were all eagerly awaiting summertime, not only to get rid of muddy feet tracks, but also to cut down on the soot, coal dust, and hard labor that goes with keeping a fire burning in a wood and coal range.

Workmen are busy now that the temperature has climbed to above freezing (brrr, who said that?), and soon the long awaited units will be ready for occupancy.

Something's always doing at the Community center. Last Sunday, officials of the project sponsored an open house for the people of the area as a get-acquainted function. Approximately 100 people attended to make new friends and become familiar with the possibilities of the newly-furnished center.

On Saturday, March 6, a Red Cross Benefit dance will be held in the knotty pine ballroom of the center. Marv Tschudin, 16 Cascade street, is in charge of arrangements. Admission to the shindig will be by presentation of a Red Cross donor's card which may be purchased from members of Tschudin's committee.

Miss Anne C. Platt of the home economics department is planning a nutrition class next quarter for the women of the village. During winter quarter, adult classes in sewing were held on Tuesday evenings at the Community center.

On Saturday mornings, Mike Kekich, history major of 50 Ravalli street, tunes in the radio to hear his tiny wife Audrey vocalize for a local dairy. Baby Bryan and Mike Jr. listen to the broadcasts, too.

The population of the area is rapidly increasing. An average of 4 babies per week are delivered to add to the census.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Heath, he's a forestry major, have just brought their brand new baby to their brand new home at 16 Dawson street. Little Kathleen Marie weighed in at 7 lbs., 2 oz.

Dorothy and Chuck Francis, 22 Lake street, have increased their family by four. Their black Labrador Suzy is busy teaching her quadruplet puppies how to behave when indoors. Anybody want a dog?

From personal observation, we'd say there are only about four families out here that don't have a pet dog or cat.

Fair Play, An Element of Competition

Recent issues of current magazines have carried an advertisement with the headline: "Understand Competition, and you understand America." The ad was meant as an appeal for private enterprise and a mild condemnation of government ownership, but it means even more.

Add the element, "fair play," and the whole picture is different. Understand competition, coupled with fair play, and you understand the America that our forefathers dreamed of and lived for in their simple God-fearing fashion.

True enough, competition existed without the qualifying element of fair play even in those days, and true enough, competition has existed since the beginning of time. So what, you say. So this, competition coupled with fair play, can be as good a philosophy as the Golden Rule.

Fit it to business, school, athletics, community affairs, or any of the many and complex associations, and it can be applied to any and all of them. Think of it the next time you find yourself in a position to play "cut throat" with some one of your fellow men. Competition, coupled with fair play, can and should be the foundation of all human relationships. — R. E. June.

For A Better Kaimin

A journalism student, especially a senior, is supposed to be that sort of red-blooded individual who will leap immediately at any chance, however slight, to work on anything connected with his future profession. Furthermore, he should carry on in the tradition of the boy scouts, which means of course, that he accepts no fees for his services.

His reward will come in the form of priceless experience. And some day in the future, the journalism student will become a full-fledged journalist. He will then look back upon his dear collegiate days and realize, between waves of nostalgia, that there is nothing like experience, unless it be dollars.

True, the above paragraph is tinged with cynicism. And, representing the retiring Kaimin staff, we say it's unfortunate that journalism students are not only living symbols of ideals, but also human beings. And being cursed with human frailties, some members of the staff may come to the sad realization that by working on the Kaimin, they have been living beyond their means.

That is, they have not been able to afford the experience. For one thing, a job on the Kaimin all but precludes the possibility of holding any other job. So instead of being able to earn some of his University expenses as he progressed through school, the staff member has had to drain his bank account or borrow money.

But this fact alone, does not offset the value of experience. If one can afford the experience, there's no doubt that he ought to get it. Experience will pay dividends later.

But for the sake of maintaining a class average, the staff member knows that he has passed up opportunities to uncover many genuine news stories.

In short, and he sadly shakes his head at this, the Kaimin for the most part, has continued to be a fairly routine sheet. The wide gap between what the Kaimin has been and still is, and what it could be, appalls him. Good work requires a lot of time.

We would like to see the Kaimin grow into something which far exceeds a record of campus events and a faculty bulletin board. To make the Kaimin truly a student newspaper would require much more time than the editor and his staff can now afford. Time is worth credits and money. And the Kaimin editor would have to sacrifice both to do the kind of job he'd like to do.

We won't say that the experience gained wouldn't more than compensate for both the loss in credits and the loss in money. Money is such an evil thing, that we as journalists should never discuss it, unless in condemnation. But it's the stuff which governs what we eat, wear, and to some extent, do.

At this time, the present editor's salary of $35, is worth about half what it used to be. The total amount collected in student activity fees has more than doubled. Salaries should change in accordance with the buying power of the dollar, if Kaimin salaries are anything more than mere certificates of appreciation.

In view of the fickle dollar, $70 a month is not too much for an editor to ask. The same applies to the $50 a month recommended for the business manager. And as for the lowly associates, they have to look totally to experience as pay. They are liable to develop inferiority complexes.

To give you an idea of how little of student funds a staff pay-raise would require, it could be effected at 9 cents a student each quarter—without increasing the amount of advertising. The Kaimin accumulated enough profit last year to pay for the proposed increases for the next two years.

Compared with 12 other western college newspapers, the Kaimin editor and business manager salaries are lower than any of them. And the associates of these 12 schools receive a salary.

But in the main, we're plugging for a better newspaper. A better newspaper will not be had for nothing.—Martin Heerwald.

Parking Problem Still Unsolved

Dear Editor:

Since you are in the know, maybe you can tell us poor people who try to park automobiles around here just what happened to the committee that once handled the parking problem.

The parking lots that we must use are bad enough, even if there were no cars in them. It gets worse though when cars are strewn everywhere. Just from looking at the way cars are parked, a visitor would think that all car owners hate all other car owners and deliberately park so others are blocked and can't get out.

On John street (it runs between Law and Natural Science), some person, trying to be funny no doubt, put up some "No Parking" signs. The same person placed similar signs just north of Main hall on the little oval. It is a pleasure to see that these signs are observed. The signs are about 20 inches wide. There is always a space about 20 inches wide between cars in front of these signs.

I have one consolation. Persons who own nice new cars have as much trouble with parking as do with my old spring-wound model. Maybe I get the best of the deal. The bumps I receive from careless parkers can't hurt my battered clunk.

Students Favor Columns

Majortiy Wants Regular Columns Carried On Sports, Campus Issues, National News, And Campus Personalities

(The following story is one of a series based on a public opinion poll of MSU students. This poll was taken by six journalism seniors as a senior seminar project.)

This project was set up according to scientific polling methods. Those polled were selected to match proper proportions in MSU's student body of male, female, veteran, non-veteran, married, single, graduate, senior, junior, sophomore, and freshman students.

A sample poll was taken first to determine the questions to be asked, and in the final poll 10 per cent of the student body was interviewed. Ed.)

Student opinion, according to the poll, favors regular columns concerning campus issues, national news, sports, and campus personalities. Of the two columns now being carried by the Kaimin, "Out of Focus," and "Versus," students favored Oppenheimer's "Out of Focus" over Clowe's "Versus" by a large percentage.

Eighty-four per cent of the students polled answered "yes" to the question of whether they would like to see a regular column on MSU campus issues.

An interest in national affairs among students was expressed by 57 per cent who favored having a regular columns in the Kaimin on national news. All but 21 per cent of the students questioned desire a regular columns on sports. A suggested column on campus personalities was favored by 57 per cent of the students questioned.

When asked, "Are you satisfied with the present column 'Versus,' by Art Clowe?", 33 per cent answered "yes," 30 per cent "no," and 37 per cent expressed "no opinion."

This particular question was frankly put and frankly answered. Plenty of room was left for pros and cons. The response indicates a healthy diversity of student political thought.

The idea of a campus issues column was more popular with the single students than with the married students. Sixty-nine per cent of the married students favored such a column while 89 per cent of the single students polled voted "yes" for the suggested column in the Kaimin.

Graduate students favored a column on national affairs, with 67 per cent voting for one. Only 33 per cent of the freshmen wanted such a column.

As might be expected, more men than women favored a regular column on sports. Of the total number of men polled, 83 per cent answered "yes"; 65 per cent of the

The proposed "Who's Who" column of campus personalities was most popular with the undergraduates. Of the freshmen polled, 66 per cent favored the proposed column while only 33 per cent of the graduate students voted for the column.

Year Book Illustrates State Life

Just for the sake of curiosity, let's take a look at the cover of Editor Bob Van Luchene and staff's 1947-48 Sentinel.

The cover illustration in copper, silver, and gold colors embodies the theme of the entire 396-page publication. The theme, Bob said, is an attempt to define the relationship of the University to the resources of the state.

"This is the first year since before the war that true cover colors have been available," Bob said.

From all indications, he and the staff made the most of their opportunity. University colors are deeply embossed on the 8½ by 11 inch cover. The illustration, in copper, is a map of Montana backgrounded by an exact replica of Main hall. The title, "1948 Sentinel," is printed in gold in heavy, informal script. Finally, a silver base gives the whole cover the appearance of spun metal.

Something different from Sentinels of former years appears on the backbone cover—the university seal.

Montana's resources are indicated on the map by symbols which represent the mines of Butte, the cattle ranches in southeastern Montana, the wheatfields of the northeastern counties, the beauty of Glacier park, and ultimately, Montana State University.

The contents of the Sentinel will be brightened by three pages printed by the four-color process, 17 pages in duotone, and 72 pages with spot color.

The covers are being made by the Universal Book Binding company, San Antonio, Tex.

Missoula Can Claim Historic (?) Ruins Too

About this time each spring there is a small minority of students (those with cars) who moan and groan about the condition of the streets in Missoula.

Completely disregarding the historic value of the old ruins, they cry long and loud about such minor details as erupting intersections, loose bricks, crumbling curbs and gorges and gullies.

To these few chronic complainers we have only to point out the great prestige enjoyed by the citizens of Williamsburg, Va., simply because they saw fit to preserve their historic old ruins. Tourists gather from all over the nation to view with awe the crumbling ruins of this old American landmark. What is to prevent Missoula from getting some of this glory? Many of the streets here look as old as anything in Williamsburg!

Higgins avenue, with its miles of loose brick and jutting rails, broken at intervals by huge formations of asphalt, was named after Capt. C. P. Higgins, one of the founders of Missoula.

At first the famous old avenue was simply a mud street. (A surface similar to that used on the parking lot in front of the journalism building.) Wooden crossings were provided for pedestrians. (With the coming of the horse and buggy these had to be removed because the horses refused to step over them.)

The first attempts at paving were with shale rock which quickly disintegrated, again leaving a plain mud street. Such was the condition when street cars (pulled by mules) were put in about 1910. The cars ran in a double line down Higgins avenue all the way to Bonner.

With the advent of busses the street cars lost money and were discontinued. The agreement was that the street car company was to cover the rails; however, they are still here for all to see!

And so we salute the streets of Missoula, constant reminders of Montana's historic past!

Orchids to Them

To the students in the law school the name Miss Charlotte Russell means the "Chief." To them she is the unofficial boss of their world of study, for she is the head librarian.

She accepted the job of Law school secretary and librarian in 1926, but two years ago when the enrollment jumped she confined herself to the duties of librarian.

When the "Chief" came to the law school there were 12,000 uncataloged volumes in the school. Now there are 31,000, each cataloged and in its proper place.

"I don't know the law," she said, "but I know where to find it. Since I gave up being the secretary, I have been busier than I ever was just being the librarian."

"The questions the students ask me. I guess that I have to know just about everything," she said laughingly.

She is the confidant of any law student who has been in the school long enough for the instructors to know his name.

Two Hurt In Explosion

Two university freshmen narrowly escaped serious injury last night when a schooner—"Barnacle Brew"—exploded in the last booth of a bistro on Woody street just as the captain of the landlocked craft was preparing for a blackout.

"Gad, it was horrible," gurgled Boris O'Toole, one of the victims. "Everything was okay until we opened a fresh supply and then it happened."

"A burst of flame, a solid mass of fire and then a three-headed goose leaped at me."

"Capt. Broadbeam Neversail, in charge of the schooners, tugs and garbage scows explosion detail of the Bar police, stated that he did not know what caused the detonation but was sure that it "caused one helluva noise." A special squad is investigating the ruins.

Two innocent bystanders were badly cut about the head and shoulders as they attempted to lap the free-flowing liquids from the floor.

Barmaids and Widows Scattered and Tattered

Reports from other districts said that flying barmaids were picked up as far south as Front street. Widows were shattered and tattered and great upheavals were felt in surrounding areas.

Sam Sleek, private detective who happened to be passing by the joint, stated flat-footedly that he believed that some sinister plot was afloat to discredit the name of "Barnacle Brew" by casting dyspepsia on its product... probably an underhanded Communist plot to destroy America.

When questioned about the accident, Jezebel Swivelhips, university coed, said:

"Well, it was like this, see. Me and Amber were doing our homework with two chemistry students. Then I heard a noise and felt something wet on my cheek... then the lights went out, and I said yes. It all happened so fast."

Specialists Pessimistic

Doctors and nurses at the Tease-View hospital expressed their belief that Cadwalader Crump, the other victim, would be detained in sick bay for several exams due to the chemical corrosion found in his stomach.

Dr. Kidney Stone, internal lakes and canals specialist, said that O'Toole and Crump had mixed "Bilge Beer," "Dreamers Delight," and "Hangover Heaven" plus an overdose of "Barnacle Brew," any one of which would cause a serious eruption.

Lasser Offers Some Helpful Suggestions On Income Taxes

Experts like J. K. Lasser, certified public accountant, make a career of telling people how to save on their taxes.

The Kaimin offers a few of the suggested tax deductions (Thank you, Mr. Lasser) the authorities point out.

Donations and Contributions

Deduct for contributions to churches, Community Chest, Red Cross, hospitals, charity, educational (no, not your registration fees!), up to 15 per cent of your adjusted gross income.

Medical Expenses

A tricky item. Your deduction is allowed for medical expenses only above five per cent of your adjusted gross income. You must have paid them in 1947, whenever the reason for the bills occurred. If you were reimbursed by insurance, medical plans, etc., you cannot deduct. That leaves such items as medical supplies, glasses (for the eyes), crutches, hearing aids, drugs, examination check-ups, and vitamin pills, all deductible.

Interest

Include interest paid on loans, even from your wife, other borrowings, all business and family debt, furniture or other items bought on the installment plan (interest only).

Taxes

Charge me five cents a gallon state tax on gas, will yuh? It comes out of Uncle Samuel's taxes—or taxes. Property and real estate taxes you pay (and in your name). Sorry, fellas, you can't deduct for your hunting and fishing licenses. Take off auto license fees and gas taxes (state, not Federal). State income taxes are deductible.

Losses

If somebody stole your overcoat (they did the editor's), deduct it. If your heap blew up, take it out of taxes (but you can't deduct more than you paid for it). House fires, accidents causing damage to your car—if it was really the other guy's fault—are good honest income tax deductions. Misplaced family heirlooms, jewelry, and secret inventions don't count—they have to be stolen.

Odds and Ends

Alimony and separation payments to your lucky wife come out (Uncle Sam sympathizes, boy). If it drives you to drink, don't deduct it. If you end up in an early grave, don't think that's any excuse for deducting the cost of a cemetery plot or funeral expenses. Oh yes! You lucky veterans, you don't pay on your G. I. subsistence checks—your $90 or $65 per. If you got a bonus from some other state, chances are it's deductible.

Orchids to Them

Mrs. Edna Holding Campbell is the forestry school secretary. Through her hands pass almost everything that goes on in the forestry school. From sectionizing and school administration to convincing a reluctant sophomore that he should take a Saturday morning class.

She was made an honorary member in the Forestry club and her certificate of membership hangs behind her desk. She is the only woman who has been honored in this manner.

To all the students in the school, she is known simply as Edna.

'Swollen Glands' May Be Mumps

"If you have swollen glands in your neck, you should come over to the health service," warns Mary Jo Borchers, health nurse. "It may be mumps."

Two students now in the infirmary with the mumps are Glen Schauer, Missoula, and Carlos Boettger, Great Falls.

Colds and tick shots are the two biggest reasons for health service visitors this week.

Bowlers Plan Cash Tourney

It makes no difference if you're the lowest man on the intramural bowling league's totem pole. You still have a chance to grab off a cash prize Saturday, March 13.

The occasion will be the first annual four-game singles handicap tourney to determine the intramural singles handicap champ.

Harold Wenstrom, Helena, in charge of the tourney, requests that all team captains give him, by Saturday, a list of the men intending to enter.

"The tourney," Wenstrom said, "is open to all who bowled in the intramural league, and who have a posted average for at least one game. The entry fee is 50 cents per man. Money received will be divided into cash prizes."

"We expect about 70 entrants," Wenstrom said, "which will make $35 available for prizes."

"The champ will probably get ten dollars. Other prizes will go to the highest scorer with a handicap, the highest scorer without a handicap, to second-place for each of those, and to the highest single score without a handicap."

The handicap for each game is 70 per cent of the difference of the person's average and 200 points.

Grizzlies Get Student OK

Poll Shows That Majority of Students Thinks Grizzly Teams Are "Better or As Good As Can Be Expected"

(The following story is one of a series based on a public opinion poll of MSU students. This poll was taken by six journalism seniors as a senior seminar project.)

This project was set up according to scientific polling methods. Those polled were selected to match proper proportions in MSU's student body of male, female, veteran, non-veteran, married, single, graduate, senior, junior, sophomore and freshman students.

A sample poll was taken first to determine the questions to be asked, and in the final poll 10 per cent of the student body was interviewed. (Ed.)

Current opinion on the campus reveals that 57 per cent of 291 students interviewed considered the performance of the Grizzly team in football is better or as good as can be expected. For basketball two-thirds of those interviewed felt that the team was better or as good as could be expected and in track more than one-half expressed this opinion.

The baseball team performance was considered as good or better than expected by 43 per cent of the interviewed; however, 41 per cent had no opinion on the baseball team performance.

Football

Male students were more satisfied with the football team than female students, as 61 per cent felt that the team was as good as could be expected in comparison to 28 per cent of the women.

Almost one-half of the women interviewed, 48 per cent, expressed the opinion that the football team was poorer than could be expected. In this category, only 30 per cent of the men considered the performance as poorer.

The female numbers were also the largest when it came to expressing no opinion, as 18 per cent had no opinion compared to 4 per cent of the men interviewed.

The basketball team performance was considered as good as could be expected by 58 per cent of the students interviewed, 8 per cent felt it was better, 26 per cent thought the hoopsters poorer, and 8 per cent held no opinion.

Comparison between the opinions of men and women showed that 69 per cent of the men felt that the performance was as good or better than could be expected while 58 per cent of the women were of this opinion. The basketball team was considered poorer by 23 per cent of the women and 27 per cent of the men.

In a class breakdown, the widest difference of opinion was between the seniors and freshmen. Freshmen interviewed were the most satisfied with the basketball team performance, as 63 per cent expressed the opinion that it was as good as could be expected. Senior opinion found 50 per cent with this reaction.

Track

The performance of the Grizzly track team was considered by 56 per cent of the students to be better or as good as could be expected, 7 per cent felt it was poorer, and 37 per cent had no opinion concerning the track team.

Opinion that performance was as good as could be expected was held by 50 per cent of the male students and 30 per cent of the women. A better-than-expected opinion of the track team performance was expressed by 12 per cent of the men while 7 per cent of the women made this selection.

Highest with no opinion were the women with 56 per cent and lowest were the juniors with 22 per cent offering no opinion of the track team performance.

Baseball

The over-all percentages of those polled on the Grizzly baseball team performance found the following results: 40 per cent considered it as good as could be expected, 3 per cent considered it better, 16 per cent thought it poorer, and 41 per cent had no opinion.

Two hundred and ninety-one students were interviewed concerning the baseball team. Of these, 78 were women and 213 were men. Only 34 per cent of the women considered the performance as good or better than expected in comparison to 47 per cent for the men.

No opinion on the baseball team was held by 62 per cent of the women interviewed and by 32 per cent of the men.

Track Squad Gets 24 Men

Coach Harry Adam's request for trackmen resulted in a turnout of approximately 24 men who will soon take to the cinders to try for spots on the university squad.

Bolstered by old timers like Capt. Jim Mayes, Dan Yovetich, Warren Crosby, Lou Rocheleau and supported by another bunch of fresh talent, the 1948 trackmen will open their season against Eastern Washington college at Cheney April 24.

Returning trackmen who will pace the oval are Bill Brandt, Great Falls, half-mile; Howard Domke, Great Falls, 440 and 880; Howard Heintz, Moccasin, 440 and 880; Royal Johnson, Miles City, 440; Ralph O'Quinn, Coalinga, Calif., mile; and Dick Reagan, Helena, two miles.

In addition to Warren Crosby, Milwaukie, Ore., and Lou Rocheleau, Missoula, both who made the Pacific coast all-star team last year, Adams boasts of Dick Doyle, Missoula, discus; Scott Cunningham, Missoula, shot and discus; Don Delaney, Missoula, shot; Bob Cope, Missoula, javelin and high jump; John Grow, Orange, Calif., high jump; Larry McLatchy, Helena, sprinter, quarter mile; and Russell Giesy, Corvallis, high jump, pole vault, and javelin.

New men girding for the squad include Wyman Andrus, Missoula, hurdles, broad jump; Ward Fanning, Butte, 440; Dale Peterson, Viborg, S. Hoop Playoffs Get Hotter

Sigma Chi nosed out Sigma Nu in the last 30 seconds, 47 to 46, and Phi Delta Theta trounced Theta Chi, 47 to 28, in the second round of the Interfraternity playoffs, Wednesday.

The curtain raiser provided thrills by the barrel until the final buzzer. It was a long shot and a foul by John Schwab, with less than 30 seconds left, that tied and won for Sigma Chi.

The game was a hard-fought, nip-and-tuck affair, with the Sigma Nus out front for one minute, and then the Sigma Chis. At halftime the score was 28-28.

McCourt, who left the game on personals, and Schwab, were the steady scorers for the winners from long range, while Stewart handled the tip-ins off the backboard. However, the Sigma Chi's had trouble penetrating the close knit zone defense set up by the Sigma Nus. O'Loughlin's consistent scoring kept the losers in the game to the end.

Theta Chi took an early lead from the Phi Deltas, 8 to 4, but that was short-lived. Vic Dikeos broke loose for the winners and scored the next ten points. The Phi Deltas scored another seven points, before the Theta Chis were able to score. The half ended with the Phi Deltas ahead, 22 to 16.

It was the Phi Deltas all the way in the second half. Theta Chi missed 20 free throws.

Larsen Gets Nod For Team Captain

Dave Larsen, Missoula, was appointed captain of the 1948 Grizzly golf team late Wednesday by Coach George Sarsfield, Butte, who was last year's captain.

Larsen has played on the university golf team in 1942 and last year, when he was high point man on the Grizzly squad. He dropped only one match last year to Idaho. He won matches against Washington State, Gonzaga, and Farragut.

Grizzlies Head for Kansas City Today

Spring Session For Gridders Opens Soon

Coach Doug Fessenden issued his annual urgent call for new football material. He said that anyone interested may sign up with the secretary at the gym office at any time to draw uniforms. "We don't try to make up a team in the spring practice," said Fessenden, "but we try to discover new material, and make corrections, and try to improve those who try out."

Fessenden stressed the fact that anyone eligible for next year's varsity team should come out for spring training. He said that the staff has a better opportunity to study the men now, rather than in the fall when they are pressed for time.

There will be several positions open because Ben Tyvand, Arnold Scott, Boney Gorton, Bob Whelan, and Don Leaphart will be graduated.

March 29 has tentatively been set as the opening date for spring training, depending upon the weather. PCC regulations will only allow 30 days for spring training, so Fessenden expects only to have four days of practice each week.

WAA Basketball Finals Saturday

Sigma Kappa will meet Kappa Alpha Theta, and Delta Delta Delta will play New hall in the finals of the WAA basketball tournament. The first game will be played at 2:30 Saturday.

Golf Course To Get Facial

A crew will begin work to rejuvenate the old university golf course next Monday, according to the planning committee.

"Plans have been approved by Central board," McCollum added, "and we hope to open the course by Saturday, April 3."

The complete district around the course will measure 3600 yards, he said. Plans include a caddy shop with golf supplies and confections. "From the original nine holes, the new course will start off at the old number one," McCollum said, "and the new number two to the west will be a 500-yard hole."

"The course will continue south for the number three fairway and green, and the playback for number four will be east to the number two green. To complete the course, the hill holes and the old number six will be used for the number seven green. For the finish, the eight and nine holes will be on the old seven and eight fairway and greens, directly in front of the present clubhouse and parking lot."

Fanslow Bowls 576 Pins

Individual high bowling series in last Saturday's competition was grabbed by Fanslow of Jumbo hall with 576 pins and by Hendricksen of OIS with 573 pins. High game honors also went to Hendricksen with 231 pins followed by Davis of Theta Chi with 226 and Hess of Corbin hall with 223 pins.

The Theta Chi five copped high team series with a total of 2,518 pins and the high team game of 918 pins. Theta Chi took three from the Sig Ep five, Row houses took two from Corbin hall, Jumbo hall two from Sigma Nu, and South hall took two from the Foresters.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon outclassed the Independents two games to one and Phi Sigma Kappa grabbed two from Alpha Tau Omega. Lambda Chi bowlers took all three games from the substitutes. The Phi Delta Theta and Sigma Chi match was postponed.

Hurry Up! Gals' Play Your Games

Deadline for the playoffs in the women's table tennis and badminton tournament is next Friday, said Mrs. Peggy Sarsfield, physical education instructor.

In the badminton tournament, Lake and Fraser will meet Crumbaker and Stewart in the semi-finals, and the winners will meet D. Means and R. Means.

Mrs. Sarsfield said that the girls should make arrangements to play their matches as soon as possible.

Ski Club Votes Meet A Success

The university Ski club voted last Saturday's all-school tournament a success all the way around the block, according to Scotty Gray, Forsyth, club president.

"In fact," Gray said, "the Diamond mountain meet was met with such enthusiasm from all concerned, that the club hopes to make it a regular yearly event in the future."

Merchandise prizes were awarded to tournament winners at the club meeting. Gray reminds those winners who weren't present for prize awards, that they can pick up their prizes by contacting him.

In commenting on the success of the meet, Gray, speaking for the club members, passed out a few thank you's.

"We are especially indebted," Gray said, "to Royal Johnson, Butte, who spent considerable time and energy laying out the course. We also owe a vote of thanks to the Missoula Ski club, for the loan of their course flags."

With the big tournament out of the way, the club will now concentrate on the Whitefish trip, which is planned for spring vacation, according to Gray.

"Thus far 15 persons have signed up for the trip. Others wishing to make the trip should contact me today (phone 4019)," Gray continued.

"Early notice is necessary so that we can be sure of cabin reservations at Kamp Karefree," he explained. "More cars are needed to provide transportation for the entire group," he added.

Montana May Have Two Entries

Still sizzling from the two wins over the neighboring Cats from down the road a piece, the university Grizzlies took to the road today for Kansas City, Mo., and the National Association of Intercollegiate basketball tourney.

Rocky Mountain college of Billings protested the method in which the tourney team was selected. Thursday morning Dahlberg received a letter from Herb Klindt, in which the Rocky Mountain coach made a last-minute appeal to the university mentor.

Dahlberg wired the tournament committee in Kansas City, asking that Rocky Mountain be admitted as a second team from Montana.

Some doubt about the financing of the team still lingered in the Grizzly camp Thursday morning. However, after a committee comprised of faculty members and students met and voted, it was decided to give the fast-breaking Montanans the green light.

Players making the trip to Dixie territory with Coach "Jiggs" Dahlberg include high-scoring Bob Cope, captain John Cheek, Timer Moses, Jim Graham, Tom Selstad, Lou Rocheleau, John Eaheart, John Holding, Dick Carstensen, Ray Bauer, and manager Bruce Silvey.

Arriving in Kansas City Saturday morning the Grizzlies will rest for the remainder of the day and begin hitting the nets Sunday in a practice session. Once the team gets to Kansas City, and for 24 hours after elimination (if they are eliminated) all expenses are on the NAIB.

Thirty-two top-notch teams are expected to participate in the tournament.
